As a community center our mission is to service the entire community by providing facilities, activities and programs enriching the lives of all local residents. In order to adequately provide this service the essential overhead costs will need to be subsidized and funded.

A very common practice for recreation facilities and community centers is to charge a user fee for use of facilities and public services. A payment paid to the organization to provide support for the sufficient maintenance and operation of the facility.

The GVCO Community Center will imposed a user fee for all those individuals entering the building in order to help underwrite some of these necessary costs. This type of fee allows community members to determine or choose whether they wish to utilize the facilities and programming.
