Overtime: Overtime is only used in Tournament Play; In the event of a tie during tournament play; at the end of regulation another coin toss will be held to determine the order of which team kicks first (home team calls this coin toss). This order is maintained throughout the entire session of kicks. The referee determines which goal to use. The kicks will alternate between the two teams. If no winner has not been determined at the end of the first session then new players (who did not kick in session one; do not have to be ones on field at end of regulation) must be selected for session two. Session three becomes sudden death; meaning if after each kicker has participated, and one kick scores and the other does not the team that scores wins.

The four players who were on the field at the end of regulation will be the players taking the first set of kicks for each team. There will be no goalkeeper and the kicks will be taken from the midfield point. At the end of session one, four new players must be selected for the second set of kicks. If one team does not have four additional players then session two will consist of the same amount of players from each team that did not kick in session one. If the score is tied at the end of session two then any four players that did not participate in session two is eligible. The kicks then go to a sudden death format.
