

Set up:Directions:

- Divide players into even teams, have players wear pinnies or different colored jerseys to identify teams.
- One team will start with the ball, and will attempt to pass from player to player. The other team will attempt to steal or deflect the pass.
- Keep track of how many successful passes each team makes. If the defense steals or deflects the ball the ball they become the offense. If the offense dribbles, travels, or does not catch the ball, it is a turnover.
- Play until one team has completed 10 passes
- Variation: award 2 points for a pass into the paint, make each player fake a pass to make a pass, call it a turnover if the offensive player doesn't square up to the basket.
