

FFC IN COLLEGE

JEREMY HOKENSON

School: University of Mary Washington

Position: Forward

Last FFC team(s): Played with the CCL Pro23 team last summer and last youth teams was FFC '99 team

Hometown: Fredericksburg, Va.

High school: Courtland (played soccer, football and basketball)

How long did you play for FFC?

Since Freshman year of high school

What do/did you like most about playing with FFC?

Bond of the team and coach

What is your favorite soccer drill in practice?

5-v-2

What is your favorite food?

Mac & Cheese

What is your favorite movie?

Life of Pi & Deadpool

If you could have dinner with someone famous or otherwise, who would it be?

Rihanna

What has been the most fun part of playing in college?

Winning conference championship

What are your future soccer goals?

Repeat conference champs

What do you think the key is to reaching those goals?

Taking one game at a time

Who is your favorite soccer player, professional or otherwise?

Antoine Griezmann (Atlético Madrid)

What is your favorite brand of soccer shoe?

Nike

HOKENSON AT UMW

2018 (So., as of 10/31/18):

Goals: 2 / Assists: 4

2017 (Fr.):

Goals: 7 / Assists: 5

Highlights:

As a freshman, Hokenson earns Capital Athletic Conference Rookie of the Year honors and was a Second-Team All-CAC selection.

MORE FFC IN COLLEGE...

LONGWOOD'S ROBERTSON NOMINATED FOR RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

A senior soccer player at Longwood University, Paige Robertson recently earned a nomination for a prestigious Rhodes Scholarship. She is only the second Longwood student ever nominated for the scholarship.

The Rhodes Scholarship funds two years of graduate study at Oxford, the oldest English-speaking university in the world. Students who receive the scholarship join an elite and accomplished group of men and women that includes notable scientists, authors, academicians and political leaders. Criteria include outstanding academic achievement, character and demonstrated leadership potential. Just 32 are chosen from the United States each year.

—For the full story, visit: www.longwood.edu/news

WALLACE EARNS 2ND BIG SOUTH DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE YEAR AWARD

The Longwood senior defender Sydney Wallace made history for the second straight year, earning her second consecutive Big South Defensive Player of the Year award to highlight a crop of five Lancers who earned seven postseason awards from the conference Tuesday.

A former FFC/FASA and Courtland High School standout, Wallace followed through on her selection as Preseason Big South Defensive Player of the Year and became only the second Big South player to earn that honor in back-to-back seasons.

She also earned All-Big South first team honors for the third straight year, receiving both of those awards by a league-wide vote of the Big South head coaches.

—From www.longwoodlancers.com

