

Conemaugh Valley Youth League History

1910

The young men in the area had formed football, baseball, and track under the title of the Conemaugh Athletic Association. The borough gave them permission for an area for a baseball field surrounded by Cambria Street and Chestnut Street to the first alley east of Cambria Street and to Chestnut Street and Railroad Street. The teams played outside teams from South Fork, Seward, Nanty-Glo, Lilly, and as far as the state of Maryland.

1947

East Conemaugh Borough Council purchased land from Mr. Ribblett for a ball park along Chestnut Street.

1951

Five hundred dollars was given to the Conemaugh Recreation Commission toward the development of the ball park along Chestnut St.

The East Conemaugh Little League was formed with the founding members of Lou Salem, Chubby Faight, Duke Andrews, and the Conemaugh Legion.

There were four teams in the league for the inaugural season. They were the Buffalos, Bulldogs, Tigers, and Bears.

The Bulldogs won the first championship of the league under Manager Lou Salem and appeared in the Johnstown Democrat August 2, 1951.

The participating teams were the Conemaugh Eagles, East Taylor-Jackson, East Conemaugh (1), Franklin, Mainline, and East Conemaugh (2). Mainline won the tournament while East Conemaugh (1) was runners-up.

1982

The Tee Ball age division was added to the East Conemaugh Little League in East Conemaugh for ages 5-8.

1987

The Conemaugh Twp-Daisytown-Franklin Boys League and East Conemaugh Youth League combined to form the Conemaugh Valley Youth League with the main playing field in East Conemaugh.

The “We Support Conemaugh Valley Youth League” fundraising campaign was started as a sign of unity with the combined leagues and communities with a window sticker.

The girl's softball age group was formed in Conemaugh.

The Conemaugh Legion won the first Conemaugh Valley Youth League Little League Championship and appeared in the Tribune Democrat July 1987.

1995

The first 9-10 year old baseball tournament was held in Conemaugh with five teams. CVYL, St. Therese, Greater Johnstown Youth League, and Johnstown Boys . St. Therese won the tournament while CVYL came in second.

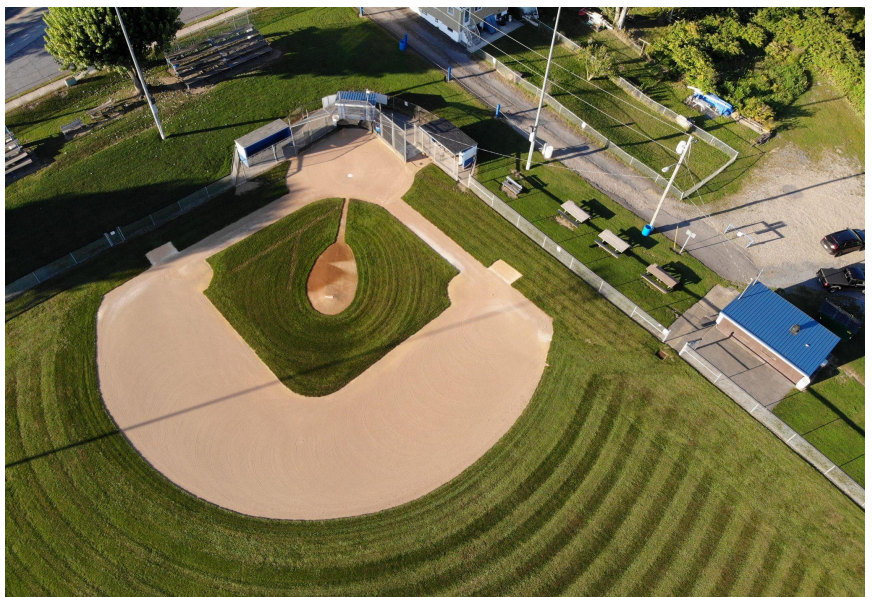

1997

The Conemaugh Valley Youth League was outgrowing their current field on Second Street. The league and borough constructed a Tee Ball field behind the left field of the main field. With the space constraints, the league was only able to construct a field with a Little League regulation infield and a short outfield with a fence around the field, dugouts, an announcer's booth, and a backstop.

2000

Gov. Tom Ridge and the State of Pennsylvania announced the approval of the $15,000 Community Revitalization Grant to renovate the baseball field by replacing the aging original backstop on the main field to a bigger hood style.

CVYL joined the newly formed Cambria Somerset Girls FastPitch Softball League with other leagues around the area.

CVYL changed the format of the Little League Baseball age divisions from ages 9 through 12 to Minor League ages 7 through 9 and Major League ages 10 through 12. The T-Ball age group was adjusted to ages 5 and 6.

After the completion of the 2004 season, CVYL was awarded a grant to install a new drainage system for the infield of the main field.

CVYL removed an old equipment shed that sat next to the concession stand and created a batting cage for the league teams to practice their hitting skills.

The first 10&U Softball Tournament was held at CVYL with Clymer winning the tournament.

The first 12&U Softball Tournament was held at CVYL.

July 9: CVYL presented the field lights proposal to East Conemaugh Borough Council and was given the ok to proceed with the field lights research for the main field.

The league started to research four companies that would install field lights to play night games with the formation of the lighting committee.

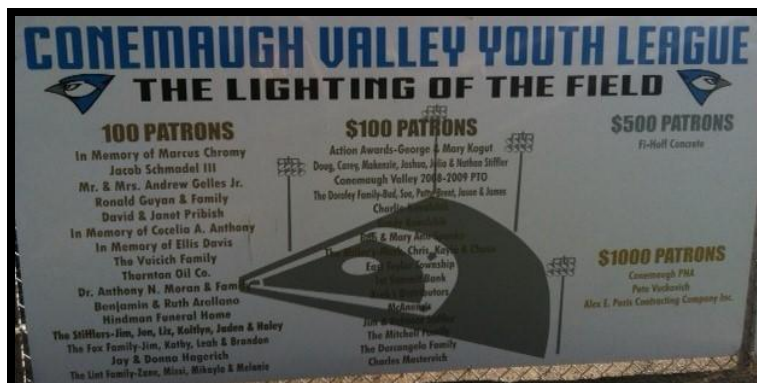

CVYL launches the league's first website: www.cvyl.com.

CVYL had 230 kids playing in the league with three teams each in T-Ball, Minors, and Majors. Softball was made up of two teams each in the divisions of 8&U, 12&U, and 15&U while 10&U had four.

The decision was made to start phasing out the wooden advertisement signs on the outfield fences for the 2009 season and replace them with new vinyl signs that will last longer.

June 17: With the help of Honorable State Representative Ed Wornaroski Sr. and East Conemaugh Borough, the league received a $20,000 grant towards the baseball field lights project.

The Lighting of the Field fundraiser was started with donation letters going out to Conemaugh Valley School District residents and area businesses. All donors who donated $100 and above were put on the special “The lighting of the Field” billboard that will be displayed at the Conemaugh Field.

July 21: CVYL made the decision to go with the Musco Lighting Company's Light-Structure Green technology field lights. The state-of-the-art technology cuts operating costs in half, reduces spill lighting by 50%, and guarantees constant light.

June: 10&U Cover Hill Fire Co and 12&U Johnstown Inn were the first CVYL teams to win a championship in the Cambria Somerset FastPitch Softball League.

JOHNSTOWN INN

December 11: Musco Field Lighting System arrived. East Conemaugh Borough, Conemaugh Volunteer Fire Company, and CVYL unloaded the lighting system off the truck and directed traffic.
